

3.1.7.6 Adjusting the pressure of the sewing head

The presser foot (stitch formation) presses the sewn surface during the transport process and allows the pushing movement to reach the fabric. Its task is to provide the required printing power to the sewn surface.