

•

2.5. ISSUES ARISING FROM SECTOR ISSUES

It called any activity released to the environment as a result of any substance harmful and harmless waste.

- Hospital waste: Medical effects are used in hospitals and pathological waste pathogen.

Photo 2.5 Hospital Waste

- Radioactive waste: In accordance with the relevant legislation are authorized institutions containing radio isotopes accurate determination and concentration on the activity level of the release agent.

Photo 2.6 Radioactive waste

- Industrial waste: emerged due to technological development, waste are threatening the environment and human health.
- Household waste: Thrown from the houses, which are not dangerous and harmful to the concept of solid waste, solid waste from places such as the kitchen garden.

Photo 2.7: Sectoral environmental issues

The juxtaposition of production units with different characteristics, while increasing the volume of business in this area contributes to the development of new markets.

The tourism sector as an economic activity area of benefits arising from the visits of foreign yönelmiştir.b sector of consumer products rather than drive to fulfill consumer production.

damage to the environment of a motor vehicle:

Oil paint and metal waste is fed into the sewers by some firms. These substances cause water and soil mixed water and air pollution.

In humans demonstrations loud entertainment services in the cause hearing problems. Other causes people to be uncomfortable.

medical waste from hospitals or health care facilities dropped from causing environmental pollution. contact with this material is extremely dangerous for human health.