

1.5.2. PPE regarding work eligibility, Handling and Storage Guidelines

All PPE;

- It should provide full protection,
- It should be appropriate to prevent risks related to creating additional risks,
- Using the ergonomic requirements and must comply with the health,
- When using the necessary adjustments should be made to fully comply,
- Operation, maintenance and cleaning easy and should be practical,
- Exceptional and special conditions should be used for an external object,
- It must comply with the existing workplace conditions.

Where multiple risk found and the employee in situations that require the use of multiple PPE at the same time against these risks, suitable for use in one and one used when unaffected by the protection against risks, said PPE chosen.

One of PPE which is mainly used by people, still used by a few people in the compulsory measures should be taken to all sorts of problems arise if the question of health and hygiene.

PPE training, and should be used in accordance with the instructions manual, maintenance should be performed. After use it should be placed in particular location stored according to the instruction manual. Protective equipment should be immediately notified of any failure or lack of relevant and necessary, they should be replaced with a new employer.