

1.7.3. Biological Risks

bacteria with the general description of biological risk factors, viruses, fungi, parasites and are the product of the organism or organisms including their associated toxins.

Biological risk factors on the human body;

- Respiratory
- Digestion
- Skin absorption
- eyes
- wounds
- Mucosa
- Eardrum

You can enter through.

As a result, light can go up or death as a cause allergic reactions and diseases can affect human health negatively.

In order to protect against biological risk factors;

- Venting of the current environment,
- Informing employees against biological risk factors,
- to comply with hygiene rules
- Employee immunization,
- proper disposal of waste,
- Health and safety signs

It must be considered.